Furthermore, Keohane points to the IMF as an institution that, "can only be effective if it is insulated from direct democratic control."

"This has more to say about the severity of the recession than anything else," he says.

Also, just this weekend, we were babysitting a puppy bulldog...and, yep, you guessed it...now my arms have red clothes on them (from the elbow down only) from little bites and scratches.

He famously warns that social media and particularly Facebook, Google, Yahoo are among the greatest spy machines ever invented.
